ADVERTISEMENT.

THE preparation of a work somewhat like the following, was anticipated a year since, by one who did not live to accomplish his design.* His object was to publish the Record of Mortality only. The present writer, having in his possession some valuable manuscripts of an early date, has availed himself of these, and of other sources of information, to prepare and prefix to the record of deaths, the following Historical Sketch. Meagre as the work appears, it has been a more difficult one than might be supposed, especially from the absence of authentic information. In collecting the names of the first settlers in Westbury, and of the first founders of the Congregational Society, on account of the want of historic records, he has been obliged to rely mostly upon tradition. For this reason, though he has aimed at accuracy, he may have omitted names equally worthy of a place on these pages. He here tenders his grateful acknowledgments to all, and especially to those few aged ones, still left among us, who have encouraged and assisted him in his labors. If the historian or compiler of a century hence, shall here derive the slightest assistance, or if any of the present generation shall award him their gratitude for this memorial of their departed friends, the present writer will have accomplished all that he proposed.

Watertown, 1845.

NOTE.

THIRTEEN years having elapsed since the compilation of the "Historical Sketch of, and Record of Mortality in Watertown," it is deemed advisable to re-publish the same, with the additional deaths and burials, and such later historic information as may be interesting and useful. Much, of equal value with that which is recorded, might be added, but would so enlarge the work, that the Reviser has but briefly noticed the subjects of his record. To the ministers, and those citizens who have given him statistical and other information, he expresses his sincere thanks.

HISTORICAL SKETCH.

THE first movement toward the settlement of Waterbury, of which Watertown was then a part, was a petition to the General Assembly, in the autumn of 1673, from several persons in the town of Farmington, petitioning the Assembly to appoint a committee to view Mattatuck, the Indian name of Waterbury, and report upon the expediency of planting a settlement at that place. A Committee of five persons was appointed. They reported to the Assembly in the following spring, that Mattatuck would afford sufficient accommodations for the support of thirty families. That Committee, also, drew up a plan to regulate the settlement, which is dated May 30th, 1674, and consists of the following Eight Articles :—

Article 1. Every person that is accepted for an inhabitant, shall have Eight acres for a home lot.

Article 2. The distribution of meadows shall be proportioned to each person according to estate ; no person to have exceeding 100^l. allotment, excepting two or three allotments, which the Committee may make, according to their best discretion.

Article 3. Taxes for public charges, to be according to meadow allotments—this article to be in force five years ; at the end of five years, rates to be on polls and estate, according to the law of the colony.

Article 4. Every person that takes up an allotment, shall within four years after the date hereof, build a good and fashionable dwelling-house, 13 by 16, and 9 feet between joints, with a good chimney.

Article 5. In case any person shall fail of building as aforesaid, he shall forfeit all his allotments, at Mattatuck, and all his right and title, buildings only excepted, to be disposed of by the Committee to others, who shall be accepted according to the condition of these articles.

Article 6. All who have allotments, shall personally dwell as inhabitants of Mattatuck, or forfeit as aforesaid.

Article 7. Each person, who has an allotment at Mattatuck, shall dwell there four years, from the time he enters upon dwelling there, or forfeit as aforesaid.

Article 8. All who shall have allotments, shall sign these articles.

The above articles were subscribed to by the following persons :

*John Laughton,	*Richard Seymor,	John Stanley, Senr.,
*John Andrews,	*Abraham Bronson,	Daniel Warner,
Thomas Judd,	*John Porter.	*Samuel Gridley,
Edmund Scott,	Thomas Handcox,	John Warner, Jr.,
John Welton,	John Warner,	John Judd,
Abraham Andross,	Thomas Richason,	Joseph Hicox,
Isaac Bronson,	John Carrington,	John Bronson, Sen.
John Stanley,	*William Higason,	*Thomas Gridley,—
Samuel Hickox,	Obadiah Richards,	Daniel Porter,
*Samuel Judd,	*William Judd,	Thomas Newell.

Ten of the above persons, whose names are designated by a star, having declined to join the settlement, the following eight persons subscribed in their places :

John Scovill,	Benjamin Barnes,	John Stanley, Jr.,
Edmund Scott, Jr.,	Joseph Gaylord,	John Hopkins.
Timothy Stanley,	Thomas Warner,*

On account of the breaking out of King Philip's war, in 1675, the first settlement was not actually made until 1677. The ancient limits of Waterbury, as deeded by the Indians, and as patented by the State, extended about eighteen miles from north to south, and ten from east to west.

Of the above twenty-eight original settlers in Waterbury, not one appears to have located himself within the limits of what is now Watertown. The common danger to which they were exposed, of attack from the Indians,

* NOTE.—The above "Eight Articles," and the names of the signers, were furnished for the "Conn. His. Coll." by Bennet Bronson, Esq., of Waterbury.

led them to settle compactly together. As the colony became stronger, however, the descendants of the following persons settled within the limits of Watertown, and were among its first inhabitants :

Thomas Judd,	Edmund Scott,	John Welton,
Abraham Andross,	Samuel Hickox,	Obadiah Richards,
John Judd,	Joseph Hickox,	Daniel Porter.
John Scovill,

The following were among the early settlers of Watertown :

David Scott,	Thomas Judd,	Joseph Garnsey,
Obadiah Scott,	— Dr. Thomas Foot,	William Andrus,
Gershom Scott,	Thomas Hicox,	William Scovill,
Samuel Brown,	Capt. Samuel Hicox,	Samuel Frost,
James Brown,	Amos Hicox,	David Strickland,
Elam Brown,	George Welton,	Thomas Dutton,
Lieut. J. Fulford,	James Welton,	Jonathan Prindle,
Capt. N. Arnold,	Thomas Matthews,	Jeremiah Peck,
Stephen Judd,	Jonathan Garnsey,	Samuel Reynolds,
Thomas Hammond,	Israel Woodward,	Nathaniel Merrills.
James Doolittle,

The first step toward the formation of a separate society in Watertown, was a petition to the town of Waterbury, from several persons in the north-west part of said town, asking permission to hire preaching among themselves, four months in the year, namely : December, January, February and March, and asking exemption from ministerial taxes in Waterbury, during said time. That petition was presented September 29, 1736, and was rejected.

At that same meeting, a petition was then presented by the same persons, to be set off as a distinct and independent society by themselves. This petition was also rejected. The next year, in the autumn of 1737, a petition was sent to the General Assembly for a distinct organization. The next year, 1738, a Committee was appointed and sent out by the General Assembly, to examine into the circumstances and wants of said petitioners ; and the next year, 1739, being 119 years ago, a society was organized by the name of Westbury. It remained as a society of Waterbury until the year 1780, when it was incorporated as an independent town, by the name of Watertown.

The society of Northbury being included, the Town Officers and Representatives were elected from each place, until 1795, when Northbury was incorporated as a town, and received the name of Plymouth.

"The first settlement within the limits of Watertown was made about the year 1729, by a family of the name of Garnsey, from Milford, on what is now the farm owned by Andrew Darrow. It was considered such an undertaking at that period, that prayers were offered for their safe arrival, &c. This town has been noted for the size of its forest trees. It is said that one of the first settlers, having no shelter for the night, peeled off the bark of one of the trees which he had felled, and laid down upon the inside. In the morning when he awoke, he found the bark rolled up so closely that it was with some difficulty he could extricate himself. It is also related, that one of the first settlers, by the name of Brown, was so straitened in his circumstances, that he sold one of his children (a son) to one of his neighbors for a barrel of pork, in order to obtain something for the rest of his children to subsist on."*

Among the first founders and prominent members of the Congregational Society in Westbury, which was organized in 1738, appear the names of the following persons :

Dea. Jon. Garnsey,	Dea. John Warner,	Thomas Hammond,
Daniel Scott,	Ebenezer Porter,	John Stoddard,
Lieut Thos Richards,	Amos Hicox,	Richard Seymour,
Nathaniel Arnold,	Jeremiah Peck,	Timothy Williams,
William Scovill,	Joseph Garnsey,	Elnathan Judd,
George Welton,	Thomas Cole,	Thomas Fenn,
Thomas Matthews,	Ambrose Hicox,	Samuel Reynolds,
Dea. Thomas Hicox,	Stephen Scott,	Michael Dayton.
Dea. Timothy Judd,	Thos. Buckingham,

The First Congregational Church was erected in 1741, near the south-west corner of the old burying-ground.—The Second, in 1772, a few rods south-east of the present one, the ground being purchased of Mr. Thomas Scott. It was used for Divine worship until January, 1840, and soon after taken down. The present one was erected in 1839, on a new location, purchased of the heirs of Mr. David Woodward, and was dedicated on Wednesday, January 29th, 1840. Sermon preached by the Rev. Charles Bentley, of Harwinton.

The first movement toward the formation of an Episcopal parish in Westbury, was in 1764, when the following persons agreed to hold public worship in Westbury, on those Sundays when there was no preaching in Waterbury, and also to make arrangements to erect an Episcopal Church in Westbury. They met in the house of James Doolittle, in the winter, and of Ensign David Scott, in the summer. Their names are as follows :

Asahel Beach,	Samuel Brown,	Joseph Brown,

In 1765, under the agency of Capt. Scovill, the first Episcopal Church was erected, on a piece of ground donated for the purpose by Capt. George Nichols of Waterbury, a few rods south-west of the first Congregational Church ; the business part of the town being then near the locality of the Churches.

The second, in 1793, on a piece of ground purchased of Mr. Samuel Southmayd, south of Mr. Timothy Judd's,* and near where is now the residence of Alanson Warren, Esq. It was consecrated Nov. 18th, 1794, by Right Rev. Bishop Seabury, and last used for Divine Worship on Sunday, Oct. 28th, 1855. Soon after, it was purchased by George P. Woodruff,† and removed to its present location. None of the contributors for the erection of said Church are now living. In February, 1846, valuable real estate, which had been previously purchased by J. N. Blakeslee, Esq., was offered to, and secured by, this society, on a portion of which an Academy was erected in 1846, a Rectory in 1851, and in 1855, a new Church edifice, the corner-stone of which was laid by Right Rev. Assistant Bishop Williams, on Monday, May 29th, 1854, and the Church consecrated by him on Thursday, Nov. 15th, 1855.

* Mr. Judd lived in a house then standing in front of the residence of the late Holbrook Curtis, Esq.

† Since deceased.

The chapel belonging to the Congregational society was their after place of meeting, from the autumn of the same year until October, 1854, when they occupied the Lecture room of their new Church, which had been erected during the previous summer on an eligible lot, purchased of Miss Lydia Woodward, and was dedicated on Wednesday, the 13th day of December, 1854. Sermon on the occasion was preached by the Rev. Dr. Kennedy.

On the lot with the Church has been also erected a neat and commodious residence for their minister.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The oldest male person now living in Watertown, is Mr. Benjamin H. Judd, who was born Sept. 30th, 1770.

The oldest person who has ever lived in Watertown as a permanent resident, was Mrs. Rebecca Prindle, widow of Mr. Noah Judd, and grand-daughter of Jonathan Prindle, one of the first settlers. She was baptized by the Rev. John Trumbull, a few days after his ordination, being the first child baptized in the place. She died March 19th, 1838, aged 99 years.

In the winter of 1800, a Mrs. Clark, who for a time had lived with her friends in this place, was carried to Cornwall, Vermont, in a sleigh, being then 100 years of age. She was known to have lived three or four years after.

The first male child born in Watertown, was Mr. James Welton, who died May 18th, 1812, aged 89.

Thomas Matthews, Esq., who died Sept. 6th, 1798, aged 93, was the person who trimmed with a pocket-knife the tree now known as "the Large Elm."

The first one-horse Wagon ever owned in Watertown, was purchased by Rev. Chauncey Prindle, in or about 1805.

The oldest house in this town is the one owned and occupied by Mr. Andrew Darrow, supposed to have been built between 1730 and 1735. The next is the one known as the "Trumbull House," in which John Trumbull, the celebrated author of "McFingal," was born, April, 24th, 1750.

The first Bell for the Congregational Church, was hung August, 1785, and used until 1851 (a period of 66 years), when it became unfit for use ; and a new one, of 1032 lbs. weight, was hung in its place Nov. 20th, 1851.

The old Episcopal Bell, cast in 1801, was purchased by David Hard, Esq., of New Lisbon, N. Y., in October, 1855, and presented to the Episcopal Church in Oconomowoc, Wisconsin.

Weight of new Bell of the Episcopal Church is 1,153 pounds.

Elm tree in front of Congregational Church was discovered in 1826, by David Woodward, when mowing ; it was about two feet high.

Center District School-House, built in 1852 and occupied in the autumn of the same year.

The frame of the Episcopal Church was raised Sept. 5th, 6th and 7th, and the Methodist, July 20th to 25th, 1854. The Congregational in June, 6th to 10th, 1839.

On Sunday, Nov. 13th, 1853, the rain poured incessantly nearly all day, causing such a flood as was never known in this section of country. The dam then owned by Mr. William Dayton, and the large stone bridge a few rods below, were both carried away. December, 1853, the bridge was rebuilt, at a cost of $500.

EVERGREEN CEMETERY.

IN 1854, some of the citizens of Watertown united in an Association, to procure and arrange another place of burial, beside the one which had been used from the earliest settlement of the town. A piece of land containing $4\frac{1}{2}$ acres, a short distance north of the Center, was purchased for \$1200, and in part graded and laid out into lots. On Monday, Sept. 4th, 1854, it was dedicated with appropriate services, and an address delivered by Hon. SAMUEL A. FOOTE, of Geneva, N. Y.

The ground has since been planted with evergreens, and the chaste and elegant family monuments and stones, reared by affection to perpetuate the memory of the departed, have greatly beautified this place of the dead.

The first interment in this Cemetery, was that of Miss Sarah B. Atwood, daughter of Mr. Hinman Atwood, who died August 28th, 1854, aged 21 years.

THE NIGHT OF THE GRAVE.

When the calmness of evening lulls Nature to rest,
And the wild, howling tempest now ceases to rave,
Sure this is the season of others the best,
To reflect on the cold, silent night of the grave.

And where are those friends in affection so dear,
Which the Father of lights in His tenderness gave?
Ah me! their sweet accents no more meet our ear,
They all lie entombed in the night of the grave.

'Twas thus while I wandered and mused on the scene,
Methought can the Christian to death be a slave?
No hope for the future, no prospect serene,
Gild the path, though it lies thro' the night of the grave.

Must we, then, yield to sorrow? Ah, no! we'll rejoice;
For though o'er his tomb the sad willow may wave,
From the courts of high Heaven, sweet whispers the voice,
There's a Morning that dawns on the night of the grave.

N O T E .

THIS third series of the "Historical Sketch of, and Record of Mortality in Watertown," was arranged for publication by the late FREDERICK DAYTON, as a continuation of the two previous series—the first, issued in 1845, by the Rev. N. S. Richardson, D.D., and the second by himself, in 1858. The development and rapid progress of that wasting disease—consumption—checked the plans of life, and suddenly terminated his earthly labors, leaving this work unfinished. The hand of affection completes it, as a loving tribute to a brother's memory, placing it before the public with the hope that it may be acceptable to all, but especially to those who will find recorded herein the names of their own loved departed ones, who, with him, are sleeping

"That quiet sleep,
Which all earth's weary ones will find at last."

HISTORICAL SKETCH.

As the first and second series of this work contain a full account of the settlement of Watertown, with other interesting statistical and miscellaneous information, to the year 1858, its republication in the present series is thought unnecessary. A complete record of the deaths and burials in the town since that year, is made, together with the names of those persons who were born there—but have died elsewhere—and therefore do not appear on the burial list. This addition in the second series was so generally approved that great pains have been taken to make that of this issue more complete, and it was the hope of the compiler that no name would be left out which should be added.

The great civil struggle through which our country has passed since 1858, when her sons were called to the defense of her national flag and national honor, was not unheeded by the citizens of Watertown. Patriotism and loyalty responded, and many offered themselves volunteers in the great cause. By others, bounties were paid or substitutes procured, until the various State regiments contained the familiar names of numbers who were willing to do their duty on the field of battle. It was thought by the author of this work, that a summary of what was done by the town in furnishing its quota of men, would form a valuable appendix to it, and the extracts from the Town Records are inserted as he arranged them, as is also his list of deceased soldiers. In a retrospective view, this will doubtless be as interesting a historical reference as any that could be made.

In the ordinary course of events, many of the citizens of Watertown have removed their residence to other places, but they carry with them pleasant and fragrant memories of past days, and take a just pride in the growth and advancement of their native place. To come back and revisit their old homes—to greet the friends and companions of youthful and maturer years, is an ever fertile source of pleasure. To speak of changes that have come to each during days of separation, fills the mind with sadness. The cemeteries show where to find those who are missed among the living, and their ever open and increasing volumes give a faithful record of familiar names. As a beautiful rural place for the repose of the dead, Evergreen Cemetery is seldom surpassed. The Old Cemetery affords a cherished resting-place for those who desire to be laid beside kindred and friends, whose graves were made long ago.

As an agricultural town, Watertown stands first in Litchfield County. Its farmers are widely known for their thrift and enterprise, and the products of their farms are not often excelled. The Agricultural Association of the town, formed in 1867, is flourishing and increasing in interest, and offers at its annual autumnal fair, as great attractions as those which have had a longer existence.

As a healthy and attractive summer resort, also, Watertown has a just repute. Its fine and well kept residences, churches and other buildings, form a prominent part in the landscape. The Warren House, which affords accommodations for a large number of guests, is an elegant structure, with fine grounds handsomely laid out.

Railroad communication with seaboard and adjacent places, which has been long desired, is now afforded. A branch road, connecting with the Naugatuck Railroad at Waterbury, was opened for travel in September last, on the first day of the autumnal fair in Watertown. The prolonged drought of the past season has been severely felt here as elsewhere, and wells and springs which have been heretofore unfailling, are now entirely dry. For many seasons such a scarcity of water has not been known.

It is a pleasing structure, and affords excellent accommodations for religious worship. Cost of the building, about three thousand dollars.

Rev. FREDERICK HOLCOMB, D. D., twice rector of Christ Church, Watertown, is now living there, at the advanced age of eighty-four years, and is the oldest presbyter of the Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Connecticut. He was ordained deacon in New Haven, Connecticut, June 23, 1811, by the Rt. Rev. Abraham Jarvis, D.D. second Bishop of Connecticut, and priest by the same, December 20, 1812. In 1868 he lost by death his only grandchild, Frederick Holcomb Starr, and a few months since, his son-in-law, Mr. O. S. Starr. He has been called to officiate at the burial of many of his former parishioners, to whom he was warmly attached. Beloved and respected by all his townsmen, he stands among them as a connecting link between the present and the past, awakening memories both pleasant and sad.

Recent repairs upon the Episcopal church have made it more durable and attractive. Few country churches are more pleasing than this, in its proportions and style of architecture.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

OF THE LATE

DOCTOR SAMUEL ELTON.

DR. SAMUEL ELTON, only son of Doctor John and Lucy Elton, was born in Watertown, Conn., September 6, 1780, died in that place December 8, 1858, and was buried there, in Evergreen Cemetery, on Sunday, December 12, 1858, in the seventy-ninth year of his age. The name of Elton, in connection with the practice of medicine, in what is now the town of Watertown, has been known for a period of about ninety years. Three individuals of that name, nearly connected, have filled that important and highly responsible station for these several consecutive periods. viz: Doctor James Elton, seven years; Doctor John Elton, twenty-four years; and Doctor Samuel Elton, fifty-eight years. The name of the latter has been so long a household word in the families of this community that it will live long in endearing association. Although he had outlived most of his early companions, and multitudes of the young, he had not so far outlived himself, but that he was in a degree, active and useful in his profession to the last. It was but a few moments after his return from visiting a patient, that he was attacked by his last distressing illness. He was, no doubt, one of the oldest practitioners in the State, and numbers of his brethren of the medical faculty were present at his funeral, to pay the last tribute of respect to his memory. He has descended to the grave, as full of professional honors and esteem as of years.*

*Extract from sermon of Rev. Dr. Holcomb, delivered at the funeral of Dr. Elton.

SUMMARY.

THE 19th Regiment, Connecticut Volunteers, was formed in pursuance of a call from President Lincoln for three hundred thousand men, immediately after the disastrous close of McClellan's Peninsular campaign in 1862. On the 3d of July, 1862, Gov. Buckingham issued a proclamation urging the people of Connecticut to raise several new regiments to aid in the completion of this number. At a county convention held in Litchfield, July 22d, resolutions were unanimously passed, declaring that an entire regiment should be raised within the county. A bounty of one hundred dollars was offered by most if not all of the towns, and the offer of a commission to any who should enlist forty men, proved a great incentive to effort. William H. Lewis, Jr. at once engaged with great earnestness in this work, as recruiting officer, and many of our townsmen enlisted under him. When the companies of the regiment were filled, he was made First Lieutenant of Company D, and afterwards Captain of Company B. Space will not allow an extended record here of the honored and worthy place which the 19th Regiment holds among those who fought our country's battles. Its full history has been compiled by Lieutenant Theodore Vail, and offers a most interesting volume of reading matter. Most of the above is an extract therefrom. Of the eight hundred and fifty who left Camp Dutton, September 15, 1862, only one hundred and eighty-three remained. Among the "dead of the regiment" are found the names of several of our own recruits. In the 20th Regiment we find the names of other of our townsmen, who fought and suffered in our civil struggle. Lieut. Nathan B. Abbott, of Company H, which suffered great loss at the battle of Chancellorsville, came out unharmed. In the thick fight at Gettysburg, he was slightly wounded in the finger, and his musket struck by a rebel bullet. Being transferred to Sherman's army, he was in various battles and skirmishes in Tennessee and Georgia.

and in the "great march to the sea." He was also in the severe battle at Bentonville. Being wonderfully preserved from wounds, sickness and capture, he returned in safety to his home and friends.

With the record of companies A. and H, 23d Regiment, Connecticut Volunteers, most of the citizens of Watertown are familiar. Lieut. J. A. Woodward has kindly furnished the following interesting outline of events, which are thankfully recorded. He, with all the recruits from Watertown, and the others of his company, A, were captured on the morning of the 24th of July, 1863, by the forces of Gens. Taylor, Moulton and Green, about fifteen thousand strong. Being reduced to two hundred and fifty men and officers, resistance on their part was very feeble, although some well-directed artillery shots gave the enemy a warm reception. A surrender was inevitable, and greeted with such howlings and yells as the rough Texan soldiers only could give, but with a promise to respect their private property, (knapsacks and canteens), all were started on a march to Fort Buchanan at Brasher City, La., where the rank and file were paroled, but the commissioned officers were started on a march for the interior of Texas. The incidents on the way were many—languishing under a burning July and August sun, walking from ten to twenty miles a day, and suffering intensely from hunger. Arriving at the prison, their rations were corn meal wet with cold water, and baked on the coals. Lieutenant Woodward was the only one from Watertown sent to the prison, and by various contrivances managed to get along well. Having lost his boots one day while asleep, he was six months without shoes or stockings, afterward obtaining a pair of the former by whittling out a fancy pipe and trading the same with a woman, for a pair of shoes made of untanned leather. Experiencing great inhumanity in common with the five thousand who were his comrades, he received no intelligence from his home and friends, for more than thirteen months. After an imprisonment of over a year he was released, and reached his home and friends with great joy.

Obituary.

MRS. SARAH (BRONSON), widow of Johnson F. Welton, died in Burton, Ohio, March 23, 1870, aged 102 years, 4 months and 8 days, and was buried in that place. She was born in Waterbury, Conn., December 15, 1767, and married to Mr. Welton in 1794, at the age of 27. She became the mother of ten children, eight of whom survive her; the eldest being at this present, seventy-five years old, and the youngest fifty-five. Her grandchildren number forty; her great-grandchildren fifty-six, and the fifth generation three; making in all, living and dead, one hundred and nine lineal descendants. Her married life till 1834, was passed in Watertown, Conn., a period of forty years, thus identifying her with the people and interests of that place. In 1834, she removed with her husband and family to Burton, Ohio, where Mr. Welton died in 1844—she surviving him over twenty-five years. Her life ante-dated the Declaration of Independence, nine years—at the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown, in 1781, she was fourteen—and when the present Constitution of the United States was ratified, and Washington elected first President, she was twenty-two. Uniting with the Episcopal Church, not long after her marriage, she continued in that communion until her death, and having filled her long day of earthly toil and patient waiting, she passed away to inherit the gracious recompense of reward.—Extract from Obituary.

Æ 45.

We shall Know Them in the Morning.

We shall know them in the morning, when Jesus calls his own,
In the morn of the resurrection, and heavenly joys are won.
We shall know them in the morning, when all the saints arise,
On the right hand, where they gather, who are fitted for the skies.

We shall meet them in the morning of Heaven's eternal light.
Where the saints of every nation are robed in changeless white.
With Jesus and His angels, the glad host of the skies.
We shall meet them in the morning, when all the saints arise.

We shall see them in the morning where partings never come.
Where those we've loved in Jesus, forever are at home.
We'll range the plains together, and joy in bliss untold,
We shall join them in the morning, where the streets are paved with gold.

We shall greet them in the morning, where sainted ones all meet.
Within the walls of Jasper, we'll bow at Jesus' feet.
Where every singing seraph, his harp of glory tries.
We shall greet them in the morning, when all the saints arise.

We shall know them in the morning, with the waking sainted dead.
Cheered by the gladsome presence of Christ, our Living Head.
Arrayed in robes of brightness, exultant for the prize,
We shall know them in the morning, when all the saints arise.
